PROFILE

I trained in internal medicine and cardiology in Lahore and spent two years in a chest pain unit where every minute mattered. That taught me to listen first and test second. Today I see patients in Gulberg and online. Most come with a worry: a reading on a home BP machine, a family history, a strange flutter at night. My job is to turn that worry into a clear plan.

AREAS OF CARE

Chest pain clinic - A same-week pathway for people with new chest pain who need to know if it is the heart.

Blood pressure that stays down - Home readings, fewer tablets where possible, and a plan you can actually follow.

Palpitations and rhythm - Working out what that flutter is, using Holter monitors and patient diaries.

Heart failure follow-up - Regular reviews that keep people out of hospital and back to normal life.
